Even under normal circumstances, living behind bars is a challenge. Studies show that for each year a person is incarcerated, they can expect to lose two years off of their life expectancy. The coronavirus pandemic has turned that grim everyday reality into desperation.

Over the past year, more than 2,600 of the 35,000 people locked in New York state's prisons have tested positive for COVID-19. Twenty of them have died. As of this month, authorities have
